

Postdoc positions at Tel Aviv University

Yair Shokef's group at Tel Aviv University is hiring postdoctoral fellows, preferably through the Sackler Center for Computational Molecular and Materials Science. Current research in the group covers multiple topics in non-equilibrium statistical mechanics, with close collaborations with leading experimental groups, in topics ranging from topological mechanics to active matter. Candidates should be highly motivated, with experience and interest in theoretical or computational research, and should hold a Ph.D. degree in physics, chemistry, engineering, or applied math.

To be considered for the Sackler Center fellowship, candidates should apply here. Application material includes cover letter, CV, research statement, and names of at least three academic references. For informal inquiries, please contact shokef@tau.ac.il.
